Social-Emotional Development at 12 Months

- Your baby responds to her name when you call her.
- Your baby is interested in other babies and children.
- Your baby shows many emotions, such as happiness, sadness, discomfort, and anger.
- Your baby may be shy around new people or seem jealous if you pay attention to someone else. He may need some time to watch and warm up to new people and new places.
- Your baby may have fears, such as fear of falling, darkness, large animals, loud sounds, or changes in routines.
- Your baby responds differently to strangers than she does to family members and friends she sees a lot.
- Your baby wants you in his sight all the time. He may get upset when you leave him with someone else.
- Your baby imitates other children and adults. She may imitate sounds, actions, and facial expressions.
- Your baby gives affection by hugging and kissing. He may hug or kiss you, familiar children and adults, pets, or stuffed animals.
- Your baby watches other people. She may respond to someone's pain by crying or showing distress.
- Your baby is beginning to show his likes and dislikes. He may push things away that he does not like. He may feel attached to a special toy or blanket.
- Your baby is becoming more independent. She may seem stubborn or frustrated when she cannot do something herself.

Social-Emotional Activities for Babies 12 Months Old Keep a home routine for eating, sleep-Let your baby know every day how Play on the floor with your baby every Play simple games with your baby, such ing, diapering, and playtime. Talk to much you love him and how special he day. Crawl around with her, or just get as Pat-a-cake, Peekaboo, and Hide and your baby about routines and what will is—when he wakes up in the morning down and play on her level. She will Seek, or chase each other. Laugh and be next. This will help her feel secure. and when he goes to sleep at night. really enjoy having you to herself. have fun together! Your baby can "help" you while you Play gentle tickle games with your Dance to music with your baby. Hold are making dinner. Have a drawer or baby, but make sure to stop when she his hands while he bends up and down. Play name games with your baby, such cupboard that is full of safe kitchen Clap and praise him when he "dances" lets you know she has had enough. as "Where is Rita?" items, such as measuring cups and big Watch her carefully and you will know. by himself. spoons, that he can empty. Play with child-safe mirrors* with your Go on a walk to a park or a place Twirl your baby around. He will enjoy Read together with your baby. Before where children play. Let your baby baby. Make silly expressions and talk to a little rough-and-tumble play, but naptime and bedtime are great times watch them and visit a little if he is your baby about what she is seeing in make sure you stop when he has had to read together. Let your baby choose ready. the reflection. enough. the book and snuggle up! Invite a friend over who has a baby When you are dressing or diapering Let your baby have as many choices as Sit on the floor with your baby and roll or young child. Make sure you have your baby, talk about her body parts a ball back and forth. Clap your hands possible about foods, clothing, toys, and show her your body parts. Say, enough toys for both children. It is and events. She will enjoy making when your baby pushes the ball or a little early for them to know about "Here is Daddy's nose. Here is Destiny's choices. "catches" the ball with his hands. sharing. nose."

^{*}Be sure to review safety guidelines with your health care provider.